Children should be made responsible citizens: Vice President A menace called Plastic

The Vice President of India, Shri M. Venkaiah Naidu has said that Children should be made responsible citizens. He was interacting with the Children from GD Goenka LaPetite Preschool who came to wish him on the occasion of Independence Day, here today.

The Vice President said that Mother is the first teacher to a child and they should be taught about Mother, Motherland and Mother tongue. He further said that we should teach them about our traditions and rich cultural heritage. Their education should begin with a good grounding in their mother tongue, he added.

The Vice President advised the teachers to take the responsibility of transforming children into responsible citizens. He further said that Guru plays the most important role in building up the future of our nation by educating children. Technology is also important, but Google can never replace Guru, he added.

Every coin has two sides. When Sir Alfred Nobel invented the dynamite, little could he have foreseen that his invention could be used for destruction. The same can probably be said about plastic. When invented in the early 1900s, it was probably hailed as one of the greatest inventions of its time. A resilient and cheaply manufactured substance, plastic grew to be all pervasive in the lives of people - especially in the urban areas, across the globe. It came one of the most ubiquitous items found in households. From plastic bags, packaging material to containers, there is hardly any urban household, where we cannot find its presence.

However, as population grew, and the use of plastic grew manifold, people started realizing the downside of using plastic indiscriminately. We started realizing the high cost that it carried towards the environment and human health. (19-8)
